

Same wavelength: Shane Warne and Sam Newman. Picture: MARK SMITH

Very special day for Warnie

SHANE Warne and Sam Newman will join forces at the cricket legend's annual charity lunch.

Newman and other football identities and comedy stars will get together on Sunday week to support sick and under-privileged children at the Shane Warne Foundation Footy Finals Luncheon.

The foundation will distribute more than $530,000 to children's foundations this year, including the Starlight Foundation, Very Special Kids and Camp Breakaway.

Rebecca Baker

"It is going to be a great event with so many people graciously donating their time," Warne said.

Those people include Garry Lyon, Glenn Robbins, Fifi Box and Jason Akermanis.

The Crown's Palladium luncheon will be hosted by comedians Hamish Blake and Andy Lee, who will entertain throughout the afternoon.

"Also, I will be giving everyone a preview of my new Channel 9 show when I interview my good friend Michael Clarke and quiz him about the Australian cricket team and their Ashes build up," Warne said.